WE OWN IT! The Accountable Frontline Manager (FLM)

• Program Overview

Operation Specialists (OS) are the backbone of Intel's Assembly Test Manufacturing operations. Their role requires speed, precision, adaptability—and above all—strong teamwork. Yet many OS teams face daily challenges:

- Communication breakdowns during handovers
- Low motivation during tough shifts
- Unclear team expectations
- Struggles with personal accountability

In today's manufacturing landscape, being an OS is no longer just about "doing your part." It's about owning your shift—taking personal responsibility not only for tasks, but also for the energy, communication, and trust you bring to the floor. This immersive, activity-driven 1-day program is designed to help Operation Specialists develop the mindset, behaviors, and support systems to strengthen team dynamics and take ownership of their role. Participants will walk away not only understanding what great shift behavior looks like—but also knowing how to model it every day.

• Learning Objectives

By the end of this workshop, participants will be able to:

- Shift from "just doing my job" to actively contributing to a strong, reliable team culture
- Communicate clearly and respectfully using the 3Cs (Clarity, Consistency, Connectiupport peers and FLMs with positive, proactive behavior that builds trust
- Give and receive feedback in a simple, respectful way that energizes team morale
- Apply all learning in a high-pressure team simulation, reflecting real shift challenges
